If those who are subject to sore throats, and the like, were to bathe their neck with cold water in the morning, and use the flesh-brush at night, they would find a benefit which would more than compensate them for their time and trouble. There are many who suffer from headache and cold feet. If they would plunge their feet in cold water every morning, and use the flesh brush every night, it would relieve both.

A lady in Lowndes county, Ala., who had been wealthy, but is now poor, clipped her magnificent suit of hair and gave it to the yellow fever sufferers. It realized a large sum, and the winner, a Northern lady, sent the hair back to the donor. Since then the lady has given the hair to the Hood fund, and it was raffled in Montgomery for $80.

WHY THE GERMAN IS UNEASY.

(From the Pall Mall Gazetee.)

The German military law is an extremely simple one: it obliges every man to be enrolled for three years on active service, and to pass four years in the reserves and five in the landwehr. After that the soldier enters the landsturm and remains in it so long as he can bear arms, but he is only liable to be called out in case his country is invaded. The annual contingent for which subsidies are voted by the Parliament is of about 144,000 men; and the troops are divided into four great inspectorates, which are again divided into seventeen army corps. In time of peace the military establishment consists, broadly speaking, of 270,000 infantry, 64,000, cavalry, 43,000 artillery and 34,000 engineers, but when the Imperial armies are mobilized for war we get a grand total of nearly 1,100,000 soldiers. On the war footing the infantry alone is reckoned at 928,000 men, and the cavalry at 146,000.

The weakness of Germany resides first, in its real isolation as a great Power, and next in the discontent of its people. It fought a duel singlehanded with France and was victorious; but it could never go to war again without having several enemies to contend with and consequently large odds against it. If it fought Austria, France would declare against it; if it attacked France, Russia would move; if it quarreled with England it might possibly have to contend with a coalition of half a dozen Powers. As to the martial sentiments of the Germans individually, they have no very ardent existence except among the aristocracy, whose members hold the best commissions in the army and fill all the State posts worth having. The ordinary German—the tradesman, professor, peasant or workman—loathes the uniform he is compelled to wear, and if sent to war returns to grumble that he has wasted his time, lost his health and earned no adequate remuneration.

In some districts of Germany where Socialist papers are much read, military service inspires such horror that every year at the approach of conscription day young men start off by the hundreds to France or England, or emigrate to America, whence they send tantalizing letters to their friends at home, describing the charms of a country that is really free. In the three years that preceded the war with France the annual average of emigrants from Germany was about 200,000; which made Bismarck say with his blunt cynicism to a diplomatist who was bewailing the loss of lives in war: "We shall lose no lives, for we should lose more men this year by emigration than can be killed on the battle-fields." The German Government has often tried to stop emigration, but in vain, for the inducements which the Kaiser's subjects have to leave their poverty-stricken, sergeant-major-ridden land are too numerous.

Judge H. W. Bruce, in giving some personal recollections of the Confederate Congress before the Southern Historical Society the other evening, spoke of the firmness of Jefferson Davis, "which many called obstinacy," and related an anecdote of Mrs. General Heningsen, whose husband, a Hungarian, having fallen in disfavor with the President, lost his position in the army and no entreaty was strong enough to move Mr. Davis from his purpose. This so enraged Mrs. Heningsen that she told some of the President's friends that if she had been at the battle of Bosworth when King Richard III, cried, 'A horse! a horse! my kingdom for a horse!" she would have pointed to Jefferson Davis and said, "There's your mule," which saying became a byword throughout the armies of the Confederacy.

A new application of the Ruhmkorff coil, for bird-catching, says Les Mondes, has been made in the neighborhood of Marseilles. Instead of using bird-lime on the trees which are frequented by birds of passage, a copper wire is wound around the trunk and a decoy attached to a neighboring staff. When the flock has been attracted by the decoy a shock is sent by the commutator, and the birds are more surely stunned than by a rifle. Experiments of a similar kind have also been made by M. Dalmas upon the vines of his country seat. The powerful electric shocks are reported to have destroyed the parasites and parasites and their eggs.

A fact probably but little known is that the United States, nickle five-cent piece furnishes a key to the metric measures and weights. This coin is two sentimetres in diameter, and its weight is five grammes. Five of them placed in a row will give the length of the decimetre, and two of them will weigh a decagramme. As a kilolitre is a cubic meter, the key to the measure of length is also the key to measures of capacity.

Eighteen hundred and seventy-nine produced no improvement in drawing teeth; no consolation for the man who has to have his hair cut; no better method for breaking in new boots; no new route for embezzlers to get into Canada; no way of getting along on the street cars except to stand up, and no new way of getting back small loans. Considered as a whole, she wasn't anything extra of a year, even for bad weather.

The following Senate bills were rerd second time and ordered to engrossment: Senate bill prohibiting the keeping or sale of animals afflicted with glanders or other infections disease. Senate bill make it larceny to swindle or cheat by cards

Message received from the Governor, announcing appointment of W. A. Phillips, of San Erancisco' as Harbor Commissioner vice Lee, term expired, and the same was unanimously confirmed.

The Senate passed to engrossment the bill empovering Justices of the Peace to hold inquests concerning fires.

Kanis bill prohibiting polling places from being held at places where liquor is sold, ordered to engrossment and re-committed to the Judiciary Committee to make the same part of the Code.

Assembly—Bruner, of Com. of Pub. Buildings, reported fvaorably on appropriating $150,000 for the San Jose Normal School.

Revenue bill No. 404, as amended on Saturday on the third reading, passed.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1st.—Large crowds assembled in Supreme Court to witness proceedings in Brawnhart habeas corpus case, but as he had been in the custody of the Sergant-at-arms for the full period of his sentence for contempt, the matter was allowed to go by the board.

SACRAMENTO, March 1.—Senate—Johnson's Insurance bill was defeated final passage, ayes 18, noes. 17—not a constitutional majority. Johnson changed his vote from aye to no and gave notice of reconsideration.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—At the annual meeting of the Sutro Tunnel Co., to-day, the following were elected Trustees: C. W. Brush, F. F. Low, Elliott J. Moore, Adolph Sutro,, David Kohn, Wm. Irvine and W. H. Tillinghast. The new Board elected the following officers; President, C. W. Brush; Secretary, P. W. Ames; Treasurer and Registrar, San Francisco, Lazard Freres; Registrar, New York, Union Trust Company; Transfer Agent, New York, Farmer's Loan and Trust Co. Mr. Sutro's resignation tendered last week, was accepted but his successor has not yet been chosen, though Thomas G. Taylor, Sup't. of the Yellow Jacket, is mentioned for the position. Various reports were read and miscellaneous business transacted. Mr. Sutro takes up his residence in this city.

CHICAGO, March 2d.—The Times Washington correspondent says that Jay Gould is Blaine's confidential adviser and partly managing his campaign, and thinks that railroad development would be the principal feature of Blaine's administration if elected President. The Times also says that a Democratic paper in Washington says that the Illinois delegation to the Cincinnati Convention will present the name of W. R. Morrison for President, as his record on the tariff, corporations. etc., will make him a strong candidate if nominated. The Tribune Special Washington correspondent says that a firn of corresp ondents for country newspapers have received returns of papers in 13 states, mostly in the west, but includihg New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts ask Presidential preferences, which show that Blaine is largely in the majority on the part of the Republicans, and Seymour on the Democratic side. The Senate Committee on Indian affairs have agreed to report a new bill, to provide the Indians with homesteads, and treat them as citizens, and assist them to become self sustaining through agricultural and peaceful pursuits. This will apply to the five tribes in Indian Territory.

WASHINGTON, March 1st.—Two of the Utes who were in the Meeker murder arrived here yesterday, and it is understood they will be sent to Fortress Monroe. Douglass, the only other one of the culprits thus far surrendered, is held a prisoner at Fort Leavenworth. It is rumored that imprisonment will be their only punishment and it is agreed that on account of the surrender of these three Utes all preparations for war in the Spring will be stopped, and the Indian question settled peacably

On Friday night Miss Leins, residing on Capital Hill, while on her way to church, was waylaid and outraged by a negro, who robbed her of a satchel and prayer book.—It was nearly two hours before she reached home. Her throat was black from choking, one ear was nearly torn from her head. and her body terribly bruised from kicks. She lies in a critical condition. A negro was arrested, and recognized by her as her assailant. A crowd of 100 men marched to the police station and demanded his surrender to them, but he had been removed to another station, which was well guarded.

SALT LAKE, March 1.—A snow slide occurred in Logan Canon, 25 miles from Logan City, which buried six men and several teams. Four men were got out, but the latest reports say that two men and three teams are still buried in snow. A large force of men have gone to dig for the unfortunate men.

GUERO, March 1.—A brutal and bloody fight occurred between three men over a game of pitch, in the course of which one of them named Holland, was killed, his mother mortally shot, and one Martin seriously injured.

LONDON, March 1.—The manner in which the Russian press sought to make use of recent demonstrations of German sympathy for the Czar, to prove that old relations between the two States still exists, has called forth articles in the Noath German Gazetta as a protest against the theory that the personal relations of the two dynasties control the relations of the governments.

AURORA, March 1.—About 9 o'clock on Sunday night, Baldwin, proprietor of the Five Mile House on the Carson road shot a Norwegian known as Andy. The latter was on a jamboree and threatened to clean out the ranch. He smashed in the front door with an ax, after being ejected from the house, but in doing so the ax was taken from him. He then got a pick and proceeded to finish up the job. At this juncture Baldwin turned loose a shot gun, its contents striking Andy in the right shoulder, making a hole big enough to put a duck egg in. Andy kept on with his pick, broke the door, and stampeded every one in the house. Baldwin came to town and got Deputy Sheriff Stowe, who went down and brought Andy to town this morning. Dr. Davison pronounces the wound serious though probably not fatal. Baldwin was allowed to go on his own recognizance:

Sunday evening a difficulty occurred between Benny Barlow and Roy Clarke, aged 8 and 9 years, respectively, Clark drew a knife on Barlow, when the latter, in self defence, drew his six shooter and shot Clark in the right cheek. The ball passed through lobe of the right ear. Young Clark's wound was dressed and pronounced not dangerous. As Benny Barlow claimed to have done the act in self defence, no arrests were made.

THE PRESS OF BODIE.

AS OTHERS SEE THEM.

The progress of the Press of Bodie—that is the aristocratic press, reminds us of our grandmother's funeral.

There is the Free Press; on its Websterian brow is emblazoned "Official Press of Mono county." For some time it floated at its massive head that it paid its telegraph bill, a certificate of honesty. On either ear sits Grant and Booth; it makes mud pies from its waste dump to teaze its grandmother. It is a "bigger man than old Grant," even if it is puss in boots, that fellow in the gulch.

There is the News, whose mission it is to expose fraud and corruption—meddle with other peoples' business; it has the "largest circulation of any other paper in Mono county." "advertisers please note that," a circulation "larger than that of the combined papers"—and that is not saying much. Its circulation is steadily increasing—two hundred copies sent to the school house—an admonition for the schoolmarms—a rawhide for the children. It reminds us of a town in China where there is no water for thirteen miles and the dogs are all day going after it, and all night coming back. It is all day blundering and all night correcting. A lively fight is going on in the back alley, Hoole for Thurman and Elliott for Kearney for President.

There is the Standard—the staid and solemn grandmother around the corner, fretting at the splash of mud the waste dump, as it bespatters her new calico dress. It is waiting for the great Hugh—the Mohn, the young Irish orator whose masterly effusions in its columns, and its immense circulation and influence carried Bodie, San Francisco and the State for the Republicans, to say who will be President.

Then comes the mudsill—the meek and lowly CHRONICLE—our venerbal friends across the street, who quietly picked the crumbs which fell from the table of its aristocratic neighbors, until it appropriated a full share of the scanty spread of its pretentious brothers. There it stands, with its bevy of lady compositors, the personification of innocense and embodiment of honesty. It too, has its little hatchet, but unlike its cotemperaries, it can't tell a lie.

W. T. Knox, Trustee of Sacremento, has withdrawn from the Democratic party and will hereafter work in harmonv with the Republicans. He was a time honored Democrat, and is a valuable addition to the Republicans.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—A serious, but not fatal accident, occurred at the Bechtel mine about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. David Davis a miner, had put in a blast in one of the drifts, it did not go off as he expected, and he went back to see to it. When within about three feet of the spot the blast went off, the debris being thrown in his face, putting out his left eye, knocking out some teeth, and badly cutting the left side of the face. He was taken to his boarding house, Mrs. Fanning's, near the Mono mine, where he is resting comfortably, his wounds having been dressed by Dr. Robertson.

The little folks had a good time at Mrs. Vallion's last week. Dancing and feasting were kept up till dusk when all posted home with a generous supply of candy. Metorological observations have now become so extended that evidence is rapidly accumulating to enable us to determine positively the source of the cold, aerial waves which sweep across our country during the winter season. The indications are that we owe them to the great area of high barometer in northeastern Siberia, where the pressure sometimes exceeds 31-60 inches and the temperature falls as low as 76 degrees below zero,

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

IN BANK.

[Filed February 24, 1880.]

Ex Parte Z. B. TINKUM. } No 10,470.

The petitioner is imprisoned under an order of the Superior Court of Mono County adjudging him guilty of contempt of court for disobeying a peremptory writ of mandate issued upon a judgment rendered by the late District Court of Mono county on the 17th of November, 1879.

But the records show that the judgment was rendered in an action originally commenced by one Albert Mack against Andrew H. Allen, Treasurer of the County of Mono, for a writ of mandamus to compel the said Treasurer to pay a certain audited warrant drawn upon the Treasury of the county out of the General Fund of the county. In the action a judgment was rendered on the 27th of October, 1877, by the District Court in favor of plaintiff, but from the judgment an an appeal was taken by the defendant to the Supreme Court, and on the 19th of May, 1879, the judgment was reversed, with costs, for want of findings upon the issues joined by the answer. Upon the filing of the remittur in the District Court, that Court, without a retrial of the cause, had findings prepared in which, after reciting the trial, which was had in October, 1877, the Court found, among other things, that A. H. Allen, the defendant, was, and is now, the elected, acting and qualified Treasurer of Mono county. These findings were signed and filed, and a judgment was entered thereon on the 17th of November, 1879, directing a peremptory mandamus to issue to the said Allen as Treasurer, commanding him that he immediately pay to the plaintiff the amount of the warrant in controversy in the case out of the General Fund of the county. The mandamus, which was issued on this judgment on the 22d of December, 1879, was not served on the defendant, Allen; for Allen was no longer Treasurer of the county. His term of office had expired on the 1st day of March, 1878. The petitioner had been elected as his successor in office; and he was, at the time of the reversal of the first judgment in the action, and has been ever since, the elected, acting and qualified Treasurer of Mono county. Upon him the mandamus was served on the 15th of January, 1880; and it is for refusing to obey it that the Superior Court, on the 16th of January, 1880, adjudged him guilty of contempt and ordered him to be imprisoned until he complied with the judgment.

It is not necessasy to determine whether the District Court acted in excess of its jurisdiction in rendering judgment without a retrial of the cause, after its judgment had been reversed and remanded. But conceding that its last judgment was valid and effectual against the defendant in the action, it had no validity against the petitioner as his successor in office, because the Court had not, by any order or proceedings had or taken in the action, made the petitioner a person defendant in the action. If the plaintiff intended to have any judgment recoverable in the action enforceable against the petitioner as successor in office of the defendant, he should have had the petitioner substituted, under section 543 of the Code of Civil Proceedure, as a party in place of the defendant, after the latter had become functus officio. As was said in Judson vs. Love, (35 Cal., p 468,) when speaking of the representative of a deceased person to a suit: He is not a party to the suit until he is made so in due form. He must be brought into the suit as a party before he can be affected by any proceedings in the suit. * * Till he is made a party to the suit, * * he is as much a stranger to the proceedings as a party to be affected by it, as if he were not the executor.

So. in an action for mandamus against a State Auditor for refusing to issue his warrant upon the Treasurer, the Supreme Court of Kentucky held that although the action was substantially a controversy between the plaintiff and the State, yet, when the Auditor went out of office and his successor was qualified, it was necessary that the successor should be made a party defendant in the action before any any judgment therein would be binding against the State. The fact that the Auditor had gone out of office, and that his successor had been appointed, says the Court, constituted no defense to the action either in bar or abatement; but the change in the incumbent should have been suggested on the records by proper orders, and the action continued against the successor (Lindsey vs. Auditor of Kentucky, 3 Bush, 231.)

It follows, therefore, that the Court below acquired no jurisdiction of the person of the petitioner, and that the judgment and all subsequent proceedings thereon to enforce the same were void, and of no effect against him. He is, therefore, entitled to be discharged; and it is so ordered.

THE CHRONICLE.

BODIE, MARCH 2, 1880.

RUM.

BY BOB INGERSOLL.

I am aware there is a prejudice against any man engaged in the liquor business. I believe from the time it issues from the coiled and poisonous worm of the distilllery, until it empties into the hell of death, dishonor and crime, that alcohol is demoralizing to everybody that touches it, from its source to where it ends- I do not believe anybody can contemplate the subject without being prejudiced against the crime. All we have to do is to think of the wrecks on either side of the stream of death, or the suicides, of the insanity, of the poverty, pauperism and destruction coming from alcohol; of the little children tugging at the breast of weeping, despairing, starving mothers, begging for bread; of the men of genius it has wrecked, of the men struggling with imaginary serpents produced by this devilish thing; and we think of the jails and almshouses, of the asylums, of the prisons and of the scaffolds on either bank, I do not wonder that every thoughtful man is prejudiced against the vile stuff called alcohol.

Intemperance cuts down youth in its vigor, manhood in its strength, and age in its weakness. It breaks the father's hearts bereaves the doting mother, extinguished natural affection, destroyes conjugal love, blots our filial attachments, blights parental hope and brings premature age in sorrow and dishonor to the grave. It produces weakness, not strength; sickness, not health; death, not life. It makes wives widows, children orphans, fathers fiends, and all paupers. It feeds rheumatism, nurses gout, welcomes epidemics, invites cholera, imports pestilence, engenders consumption, and covers the land with idleness, misery, crime. It produces controversies, fosters quarrels, cherishes riots. It crowds our penetentiaries and furnishes victims for the scaffold.

Alcohol is the blood of the gambler, the inspiration of the burglar, the stimulus of the highwayman, and the supports of the midnight incendiary. It suggests the lie, and countenances the liar, condones the thief, esteems the blasphemer. It violates obligations, reverence fraud, turns love to hate, scorns virtue and innocence. It incites the father to butcher his helpless offspring, and the child to sharpen the parricidal axe.

Alcohol burns up men, consumes women, destroyes life, curses God and despises heaven. It suborns witnesses, nurses perfidy, defiles the jury box and stains the judicial ermine, It bribes, voters, disqualifies votes, corrupt elections, pollutes our nstitutions and endangers the government. It degrades the citizen, debases the legislator, dishonors the statesman and disarms

EDWIN FOREST'S CHIVALRY.

The manly elements of Mr. Forest's character made him at all times the ready champion of the weak and defenseless. He was especially chivalrous in his conduct to women. This one instance is a sample: He was returning from New York after a successful engagement in that city, and seated opposite him in the car were two young ladies. They were traveling without male escort. When the cars stopped at Newark, a person entered and took a seat immediately back of the ladies.

He was of the loud class, full of paste jewelry, impudence and bad manners. The latter was soon painfully apparent with reference to the ladies. He indulged in offensive language and seemed to think the whole matter was a good joke. In a short time the language and the conduct of the man and the evident distress of the ladies arrested the attention of Mr. Forest. He left his seat, and facing the obnoxious passenger, said:

"Will you please vacate your seat? You are very offensive to these ladies."

"Guess not," replied the man, with the coarse and rude expression of a bully and a ruffian. "I have paid for my ticket, and will sit where I please."

"But," answered Mr. Forest, and the color mounted to his cheeks, "your ticket does not give you the right to insult ladies. That you have done, and I will give you five minutes to vacate the seat and the car. If you prefere to leave both by the window, remain, and you can be accommodated."

Mr. Forest then drew his watch from his pocket and buttoned his coat. The ruffian took another glance at the determined eye and stalwart frame of his opponent, and with murmured threats of vengeance left the car. The ladies had no furtner annoyance from him.

This is an authentic anecdote of one whose whole life was, in many respects, a romance.

An American Crowd.

On the day of General Grant's reception in Philadelphia, Mr. Sala, an English journalist, had his first experience with an American crowd. He spoke as follows in regard to the behavior of the crowd.

I mingled with the mob and saw the show in the midst of what we term in England the "howling multitude." I never was so impressed before with the good-nature and amiability of an American crowd.

I have never seen anything to compare with it. The difference and respect shown the ladies by the masculine portion of the throng surprised me. I failed to note one single instance of uncourteous, unchivalric treatment.

Now that's a much diiferent style of doing business to what we are accustomed to in England. Take, for instance, the mob we have in London on the 9th of every March, on the Lord Mayor's day.

The lower classes always make it a point to turn the festival into an inferno, and trample upon every one they meet.

Many of them deliberately arm themselves with squirt guns full of dirty water, and discharge the contents on the back of every well-dressed lady they come in contract with.

The weapon is playfully nicknamed "the lady's tormentor.

From what I saw yesterday, if a vulgar ruffian was to perpetrate such an outrage on a lady in an American crowd, he'd have been severely handled by the law.

Just previous to the late unpleasantness a little miss in Portland, Maine, lost a pet canary, and her father had it stuffed and mounted for the parlor maniel. The little girl was pleased with the operation, as she said it saved the trouble of feeding, etc. Her father is an ardent Republican, and when the "troop of armed men" was announced at Augusta his mind was in a state of great excitement. One of the neighbors told her, that her father would go to Augusta and get killed. "Well, I don't care if he does," said the little miss, promptly; "I can have him stuffed just the same as my canary."

A Mississippi farmer dashes cold water into the ears of choking cattle. This causes the animal to shake its head violently, and the muscular action dislodges the obstruction.
